Awards given to Church magazines for excellence

By GEOFFREY M. THATCHER
Universe Staff Writer

Communication Focus on Excellence Awards were presented to The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints magazines in the de Jong Convention Hall, HFAC, during Thursday's Communications' Executive Symposium. Editors and staff members from The Ensign, New Era, The Friend, and the International Magazine were in attendance for the presentation. President Rex D. Pinegar of the presidency of the Quorums of the Seventy accepted the awards on behalf of the Church and the magazines. Elder Pinegar, who is also editor of the Church magazines, said the people behind the publications are the ones who deserve the award. Plaques honoring the magazines for outstanding service in communications were presented by President E. Lee and faculty from the Communications Department. Jack A. Nelson, chair of the Focus on Excellence Committee, read the citations honoring the magazines. The Ensign Magazine was praised for communicating guidelines for solving personal, family and community problems.

Elder Rex D. Pinegar, a member of the presidency of the Quorums of the Seventy of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, commended the excellence of those who prepare the LDS Church magazines. Speaking at a Communications' Executive Symposium Thursday, Elder Pinegar said, "In our times there is a need for men of a higher excellence where their lives are dedicated after the Savior's life."

"It is the hope of these magazines to bring a desire for excellence to Church members," he said. He is the editor of the Church magazines.

Elder Pinegar told a story of when an administrator at a university was looking at his school transcript and pointed out a "C" Elder Pinegar had received in one of his classes. The administrator said the grade showed he was capable of getting a "C."

"I realized later that the lesson for me to learn was that if I was not careful, then I could find myself satisfied with See EXCELLENCE on page 5

Baird wins

BYU elects 1st female president

By CAMIE OAKS
Universe Staff Writer

Amy Baird is the first woman to be elected to the office of President of the history of BYU. Baird won the BYUSA election with 2,427 votes. Steve Moffat finished with 543 votes. "We are all very excited for Amy, but this also marks a historic landmark at BYU. Not only is this the 100th anniversary of elected student officials, which began in 1891, but she is also the first woman ever elected to hold the office of president at BYU," said Brett Blake, current BYUSA president. In response to the announcement Baird said, "I am very honored and very humbled." Baird wishes to express her thanks to all of those who helped with her campaign. "It was a great experience to work with such a great team, because with a good team you can do anything."

Moffat was pleased with the fact that it has been such a clean campaign. "Most importantly I want to thank the people who worked on my campaign and everything they did. Both Amy and I have no hard feelings and I know that she will do a fantastic job," Moffat said.

Having worked with both candidates, Blake commented that "the landmark of all this campaigning was the friendship that was built between Amy and Steve."

More than 4,000 students voted in the two-day final election. This equates to approximately only 15.7 percent of the student body which is lower than last year's 21.7 percent.

The results of the Student Advisory Council members election were also announced. Melanie Burton, will represent the College of Education; Casey Cooper, College of Family, Home and Social Sciences; David Gabrielson, College of Biology and Agriculture; Jonathan Hoopes, J. Willard and Alice S. Marriott School of Management; Lars Johnson, College of Fine Arts and Communications; Nicolene Kniskern, College of Nursing; Scott Stratford, College of Engineering and Technology; and Steve Turley, College of Humanities.

Casualties fail to dampen allied air effort

Associated Press

DHAHRAN, Saudi Arabia — From the Kuwait coast to central Iraq, U.S. and allied pilots pounded away at fresh targets Thursday, unimpeded by the international furor over the Baghdad bunker tragedy.

The U.S. command, in response to the death of hundreds of civilians in Wednesday's Baghdad bombing, said it was looking for new ways to limit such casualties.

The air war appeared to have made major progress. The command said one-third of Iraq's tanks and artillery in the battle zone have now been destroyed. Strategists are believed shooting for 50-percent destruction before ordering the ground assault.

The commander of British forces in the Persian Gulf, Lt. Gen. Sir Peter de la Billiere, told reporters Thursday there are already "proposed dates" for the offensive.

A fourth U.S. aircraft carrier, the USS America, has moved into the Persian Gulf, joining the Ranger, the Midway and the Theodore Roosevelt, a Pentagon source confirmed Thursday.

The America had been in the Red Sea. Planes from the warships were expected to fly cover over allied troops in a ground assault.

Palestine Liberation Organization head Yasser Arafat visited the site and pledged solidarity with Iraq. "I'm truly astonished at what has happened," he told reporters. "It has exceeded completely the mandate of the United Nations. It is a crime."

Two crewmen of a U.S. Air Force EF-111 were killed when their plane went down in northern Saudi Arabia, apparently after being damaged in combat.

A British Tornado bomber was lost while attacking Iraqi airfields. Its two crewmen were listed as missing.

Body after body was pulled in grisly procession from the rubble of the underground structure bombed by U.S. warplanes early Wednesday, while it was crowded with civilians seeking refuge from air attacks.

The Iraqis said it was only a civilian bomb shelter.

But U.S. officials said they had indisputable evidence, from radio intercepts, reconnaissance photos and other sources, that the concrete facility was being used as a military command-and-control center. They said they were unaware it harbored any civilians.

Outside specialists said they believed it might actually have been a two-level, dual-use bunker.

The death toll remained uncertain, in part because workers still had not reached all areas of the shattered structure.

Civil defense officials estimated more than 500 died, mostly women and children. A mortuary director said 288 bodies had been removed, including 91 children, CNN's Peter Arnett reported.

Reporters at the scene counted at least 40 corpses, many decapitated or missing limbs, extricated during one 90-minute period Thursday.

Ibuprofen doubles ulcer risk

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — The widely-used pain reliever ibuprofen doubles the risk of ulcers, according to Vanderbilt University researchers, and some experts say people taking it may want to consider lower doses or alternatives.

But for those suffering chronic pain and inflammation, ibuprofen may be the best choice, as it has the lowest ulcer risk in its class of analgesics, researchers said.

The Vanderbilt study confirms the increased risk of ulcers in people who use prescription pain relievers, including ibuprofen, that belong to a group called nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs or NSAIDs.

It said the overall risk increased with higher doses and was greatest in the first month of use.

Ibuprofen, available without a prescription since 1985, is sold under such brand names as Advil, Medipren, Motrin and Nuprin. It has captured about 20 percent of the $2.5 billion non-prescription pain-reliever market.

The study, published in Friday's Annals of Internal Medicine, involved 1,415 Tennessee Medicaid enrollees hospitalized for ulcers from 1984 to 1986 and 7,063 control patients. At recommended dosages for treating rheumatoid arthritis, NSAIDs quadrupled the risk for ulcers.

Utah House committee studies spouse-rape bill

By E. SCOTT BAK
Universe Staff Writer

Utah is one of six states that allows a man to rape his wife without legal consequences.

"In Utah, a man can't be charged with raping his wife unless court-ordered separation papers exist or if the assault occurs on federal land," Rep. Nancy Lyon, R-Bountiful, said Wednesday at a meeting of the Human Services Committee.

Utah law now reads, "A person commits rape when the actor has sexual intercourse with another person, (not the actor's spouse), without the victim's consent."

Lyon is sponsoring House Bill 256, which is designed to eliminate the marital rape exemption by instituting spouse-rape laws.

Betty Engemann, director of the Center for Women and Children in Crises, said spouse rape in Utah is a very serious issue.

"We are not talking about normal sexual intercourse between a man and a woman," she said. "We are talking about abuse, sadism and violence in the extreme."

Surveys taken by the center show 50 percent of the victims visiting the crisis center have been forced into sex by their partner.

Engemann said some citizens feel the government is trying to legislate their sex lives, but these citizens don't understand what women are being subjected to in many relationships.

The bill is a miracle about to come true, one former rape victim said. "This bill is too late to help me," she said. "I was raped and divorced two years ago, but I am glad other women can have a legal option to help them."

Many women who are afraid of embarrassment and retaliation won't take advantage of this bill, Engemann said, although having the option to prosecute may act as a deterrent.

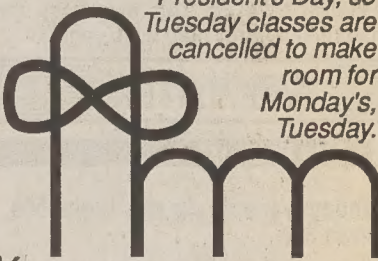

"Women who are raped by their spouses suffer the same trauma as other rape victims, at times even more so because the bonds of love and respect are broken," Engemann said.

David Condie, the domestic violence specialist for the state's division of family services, said one in 10 women are abused by their intimate partners, and one-third of those are also sexually assaulted.

House Bill 256 will have its final reading today at 3 p.m. in the capitol building in Salt Lake City.

Air Force's 'video games' are real thing

OVER SAUDI ARABIA — Dozens — sometimes hundreds — of little green symbols flash on a computer screen. Some inch forward toward red flashes on a map of Iraq and Kuwait; others hang back, awaiting their turn. The computer screen, which could easily be mistaken for a fast-paced video game, is aboard a U.S. Air Force AWACS plane high above Saudi Arabia. From this high-tech vantage point, the Air Force directs a daily ballet of sorts, tracking an allied air siege that often includes more than 200 planes airborne at one time.

AWACS is an abbreviation for Airborne Early Warning And Control. The planes, bristling with radar and electronic monitoring equipment, are designed to keep track of allied aircraft and to watch out for hostile ones. Lately, there hasn't been much need for the latter.

Warplanes roaming in western, central and northern Iraq are hunting Scud missile launchers, bombing bridges and preventing Iraqi planes from scouting to Iran.

Always there are "packages" of fighters and bombers waiting to go next. "It kind of looks like Safeway on payday — they're just lining up," Col. Gary A. Voellger said. "We own the skies."

Indeed, not one Iraqi aircraft was detected airborne during an AWACS mission that began at midday Wednesday and ended just before dawn Thursday.

Mandela's trial postponed until March

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — The kidnap and assault trial of Winnie Mandela was postponed Thursday until March 6 so prosecutors could search for a witness whose disappearance put their case in jeopardy.

Prosecutor Jan Swanepoel received the postponement by arguing that it would be "impossible" to proceed after one key witness vanished and two others subsequently were too scared to testify.

Mrs. Mandela, wife of African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela, and three co-defendants are being tried on charges they kidnapped and assaulted four young men in Soweto in December 1988. All pleaded innocent Monday to four counts each of kidnap and assault.

One of the four young men, Stompie Seipei, was found dead with his throat slit in a field in January 1989.

The missing man, Gabriel Mekgwe disappeared Sunday night, hours before he was to take the stand. On Wednesday, Kenneth Kgase and Tabiso Mono said Mekgwe's disappearance frightened them and they refused to testify.

Soviets skeptical of higher retail prices

MOSCOW — Government proposals to hike retail prices by up to 200 percent brought sighs of resignation from Soviet shoppers who said Thursday it would do nothing to put more food and goods on empty store shelves.

The plan, which must be approved by the Soviet legislature, would eliminate government subsidies to producers.

"It's not going to do any good for any of us," said Sergei Baranov, a worker at a Moscow machine tool factory. "The compensation is laughable. The prices are too high even now compared to our pay."

The Soviet government newspaper, Izvestia, said 13 of the 15 Soviet republics have accepted the pricing proposals, which also promise wage, pension and child welfare payment increases to compensate shoppers. The newspaper said proposals must still be approved by the Supreme Soviet national legislature, which resumes work Monday.

The plan is an attempt to close the large gap in the Soviet Union between the cost of producing goods and wholesale prices. It would not end central government control over prices, a cumbersome system that must be dismantled before a free market economy can ever exist in this vast nation.

Gays become 'partners' under new law

SAN FRANCISCO — Chris Minor and Richard Mulholland, sporting matching leather jackets and boots, beat the Valentine's Day rush and became the city's first domestic partners.

"It's a real milestone, not only in our relationship, but for the gay community," said Minor, who had waited since 5:30 a.m. on the steps of City Hall.

His chilly vigil paid off when the couple became the city's first legal domestic partners shortly after 8 a.m., a "test case" on the first day that unwed couples could officially register their romances with the city.

About a dozen couples were waiting when City Hall opened for an expected Valentine's Day deluge of gays, lesbians and unwed heterosexuals taking advantage of the first opportunity to sign up under the new law.

Among the first wave were Christmas Leubrie, a 41-year-old nurse, and her lover of six years, Alice Heimsoth, 39, a city health worker. They wore pastel silk outfits and flowers in their hair.

Exposure blamed in plane crash deaths

OGDEN — Four occupants of a light plane that plunged into the Great Salt Lake likely survived the crash but died of exposure in the icy water, authorities said.

The bodies were recovered Wednesday by deputies in a brine-shrimp boat about 10 miles west of Promontory Point, said Chief Deputy Kenneth Adams of the Box Elder County sheriff's office.

The victims were identified as pilot Mack Huss, 58, of Fair Oaks, Calif., a Sacramento area home-builder and former president of the Fair Oaks Rotary Club; his son, Bradley, 32, of Durham, Calif.; Mack's brother, Vern Huss, 67, of Fair Oaks; and his son, Randy Huss, 34, of Chico, Calif.

They were returning to California after attending the funeral of a cousin in Utah.

The single-engine Beechcraft BE-33 left Ogden's Hinckley Airport at 12:19 p.m. Wednesday under instrument flight rules in overcast weather, said Federal Aviation Administration spokesman David Duff in Seattle. The pilot had filed a flight plan for Reno, Nev., and on to Chico, Calif., he said.

Arms treaty talks on hold

Associated Press

VIENNA, Austria — Former Soviet allies on Thursday joined the West in warning there could be no "business as usual" at arms talks unless the Kremlin complied with a treaty to slash tank quotas and other non-nuclear weapons.

The stand of the Eastern European countries, still formally allied with Moscow in the moribund Warsaw Pact, illustrated the Soviets' increasing isolation in Europe.

The West says the Soviets are trying to exclude three motorized infantry divisions of about 1,000 tanks from a historic East-West arms treaty signed last November in Paris.

Western countries also are concerned about the movement of thousands of Soviet tanks outside the zone covered by the treaty and the figures Soviets have provided on the quantity of weapons they possess.

"No one supported the Soviets," Hungarian chief negotiator Istvan Gyarmati told reporters after the meeting.

"It's very serious, it's more than serious," he said. "We hope this is not the prevailing policy in Moscow."

There has been evidence in the Soviet Union recently that hard-line rightist military officials are gaining influence, affecting the policies of President Mikhail S. Gorbachev.

U.S. Secretary James A. Baker III suggested delaying congressional ratification of the Paris treaty because of questions about Soviet compliance. Hungary has said it would not submit the treaty for ratification until the Soviet position is clarified.

The treaty commits all countries to strict limits on the number of tanks and other conventional weapons.

The new round of the Conventional Forces in Europe talks are to focus mainly on the number of soldiers stationed on the continent.

But the Soviets were told Thursday there will be no progress in those talks until they comply with the treaty they signed in Paris.

Polish chief delegate Jerzy Nowak summed up the concern of Moscow's former allies and neighbors, seeking to ensure the security of their new democracies.

Poland, Hungary and Czechoslovakia all share borders with the Soviet Union.

"Central and Eastern Europe lose most when the treaty does not go into effect," Nowak told reporters. He said his delegation had "full sympathy with the Western position."

Western diplomats quoted U.S. chief delegate James Woolsey as warning the meeting that it could "not conduct business as usual" until the Soviet position clarified.

"Military equipment that is unambiguously and expressly within the scope of the treaty cannot be excluded from the treaty limitations by means of organizational measures," said German chief delegate Ruediger Hartmann.

"It's more than serious. We hope this is not the prevailing policy in Moscow."

Utah bill would challenge sale of drug components

By JENNIFER DERMODY
Universe Staff Writer

A Utah representative is proposing a bill to regulate the sale of components of methamphetamine.

The Drug Precursor Act, sponsored by Rep. Jerrold Jensen, R-Salt Lake, is a bill modeled after a California statute that tightens the restrictions on buying the components of methamphetamine drugs, more commonly known as speed.

Lisa Watts, the lawyer who drafted the bill, said pharmitists don't have to report the sales of these over-the-counter drugs which can be combined to make speed.

Glen Peterson of the Drug Enforcement Agency said anyone in Utah can buy the drugs used to make methamphetamines. But, if the drugs are purchased in large quantities, Peterson said the DEA is informed and will investigate.

If the bill passes, the suppliers will have to report all sales of the components of methamphetamine drugs to the DEA.

Watts said in order to buy the drugs, the purchaser will have to present a driver's license, the license plate number of the transporting vehicle and the address and name of the employer.

The purchaser will also have to sign for the drugs and will receive a bill of sale with a list of the drugs purchased, which he will be required to keep. Suppliers will also post the new restrictions.

Jim Colceri, a special agent for the FBI said the sale of these drugs has been a problem in Utah.

Steve Schreiner has led the Cougars in scoring nine times. He was the leading scorer Thursday in the win over UNM with 18 points.

BYU's team effort beats UNM, 83-76

By HANS WILD
Assistant Sports Editor

The BYU Cougars came away with a big WAC win over the New Mexico Lobos 83-76 Thursday night in The Pit and made Saturday's confrontation with Utah all that more meaningful.

The Cougars used the delay game in the second half to control the game and hold Luc Longley to only seven second half points. He had 25 at half-time.

Shawn Bradley picked up three fouls in the first seven minutes and did not return the rest of the game. With Bradley out, the rest of the Cougars stepped up their level of play.

"They did a good job controlling the ball in the second half," said UNM coach Dave Bliss. "We got a little tired guarding them on offense and on defense we didn't have any timing."

There was not a particular star of the game as it was a team effort. Steve Schreiner finished with 18 points and nine rebounds. Gary Trost came in for Bradley and played 35 minutes, with 17 points and five rebounds.

"What an assignment tonight (guarding Longley). The last 10 games I've had a chance to get some quality time. But the confidence has been there all along," Trost said.

Luc Longley had a career high 32 points, nine rebounds, three assists and no turnovers.

"It is impossible to play any better than he did in the first half. It is too bad we had to waste the performance," Bliss said.

"We wanted to control Luc Longley. I don't know if we did that, but we shut the other guys down," Schreiner said. "It is the first time I have won at The Pit and I am very happy."

New Mexico (17-8, 7-6 in the WAC) lost for only the second time at home this year.

BYU improved to (16-10 and 10-3 in the WAC) and is now playing its best basketball of the season, having won five straight games.

With nine minutes left in the first half, Mark Santiago sank a three-pointer giving BYU a 30-27 lead which they never relinquished.

BYU lead at halftime 48-45. To start the second half the Cougars made their first five shots while the Lobos made only four of their first 13 shots.

New Mexico which was fourth in the nation in field goal percentage at 54.4 percent shot only 48.3 percent, 43.7 percent in the second half.

BYU shot 56 percent from the field, 58 percent from the three-point line and 74 percent from the free-throw line.

"We will take what they give us and some of our guys made them (three-pointers)," Schreiner said.

New Mexico got within 70-65 with 5:50 left on a bank shot by Rob Robbins, but reserve Mark Heslop hit a 13-foot jumper with two seconds left on the shot clock and Scott Moon followed with two free throws with 2:02 left for a 74-65 BYU lead.

The win kept the Cougar's WAC title hopes alive. League-leading Utah took a step closer to the WAC title by beating Wyoming 77-72 Thursday in Salt Lake City behind Josh Grant's 24 points.

With three games left, two against Utah, the Cougars trail Utah by two games.

BYU and Utah hook-up this Saturday in Salt Lake City and Utah comes to Provo on March 2. The game Saturday will begin at 7:30 p.m. and will be televised.

"We're thinking about them (Utah) now. They beat us in the tournament last year and it's pay back time," Schreiner said.

Volleyball team begins tough road trip

By GRANT GARRETT
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU men's volleyball team travels to California this weekend hoping to capture that elusive first win of the season—a win that must come against one of three top-10 ranked teams.

BYU opens its road trip tonight against ninth-ranked UC Santa Barbara.

"We played UCSB in a pre-season tournament, and we did very well," said BYU coach Carl McGown. "We're expecting a really tough match," he said.

The Cougars have made some changes in their starting lineup for this weekend's matches, McGown said.

"We've moved Hugh McCutcheon from outside hitter to middle blocker, which is his natural position. Ethan Watts will be a substitute, and Warren Van-Schulky will be starting at outside hitter," McGown said.

BYU goes on to play the third-ranked Cal State Northridge Matadors Friday.

"We think that we can play with this team," McGown said. "We like playing the really good teams."

The Matadors returned all six starters this year from last year's team, and are led by Neil Coffman, outside hitter, and Coley Kyman, middle blocker.

The Cougars conclude their road trip Saturday against the top-ranked Trojans of USC. "They're No. 1 and undefeated this season, so we've got our work cut out for us," McGown said. "Playing USC is like playing UNLV in basketball—there just are not any teams that can stay with them."

BYU Cougars have rematch with Creighton

By JEANA STARR
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU women's basketball team will take on the University of Creighton Blue Jays Saturday in Omaha, Neb.

The Cougars, 7-18 overall, 2-6 in the WAC, will have their work cut out for them.

The Blue Jays are ranked No. 1 in the conference and 36th in the nation per last week's AP poll.

Last month when these two teams met, Creighton defeated BYU 84-70 at the Marriott Center.

BYU plans to use its half court trap from the beginning of the game.

"The trap has been working well for us in the last few games, so we will definitely continue to use it against Creighton," BYU coach Jeanie Halverson said.

BYU will also focus on Creighton's leading scorer, forward Kathy Halligan, who averages 21.2 points per game.

"We will definitely have to play a tight defense on Halligan and Struby," Wilson said. Struby, Creighton's 6 foot 1-inch freshman center, averages 14.5 points per game.

"Creighton has a great shooting team, and we need to realize that their guards are going to shoot and score points. If we are patient and look for good shots, we can keep up with them," Wilson said.

BYU will also focus on keeping its shooters down and rebounding well. "Last time we played Creighton we got right up with them," Wilson said. "We just need to go into the game with some confidence that we can win if we put our minds to it."

The Blue Jays are coming off a 113-70 victory over Colorado State in Colorado.

Creighton enters the game with a 10-5 record, 7-1 in the WAC. "We will focus on Kathy Halligan as well as Struby," said Creighton coach Bruce Barmann.

Quote of the day: "I don't mind if I finish last here. It still means I'd be 21st in the nation. That's neat."

Women's tennis team drops first match; Kentucky next on schedule for Cougars

By JODY NIELSEN
Universe Sports Writer

The BYU women's tennis team lost its first match of the season to Oklahoma State University Thursday, 6-3.

Sarah Mugnaini was not in the lineup for BYU and Cougar coach Ann Valentine thought it might have made the difference. "We could have held our own with Mugnaini playing," she said. "The outcome might have been different."

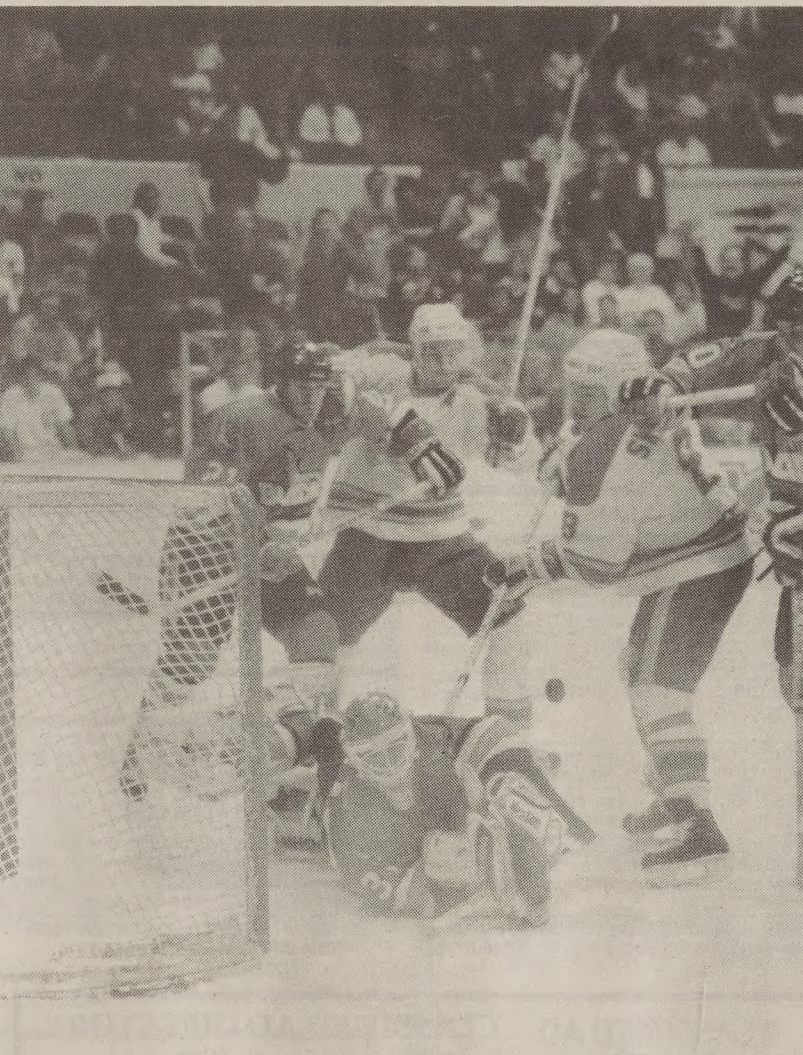

The No. 1 player for BYU, Evica Koljanin, played an excellent match against Monika Waniek, Valentine said. Koljanin was down 5-2 in the first set against Waniek, but didn't lose another game, defeating OSU's No. 1 player, 7-5, 6-0. "Koljanin is a great competitor," Valentine said.

Jennifer Holmes played at No. 2 for the Cougars, beating OSU's Jackie Booth, 6-3, 6-4.

"Holmes played outstanding tennis against Booth," Valentine said.

BYU's Monika Koblikova played one of her best matches today, Valentine said. Koblikova's opponent, Sally Godman throws a lot of slice at you but Koblikova kept her cool, she said. Going into the doubles category, the Cougars were 3-3 with OSU. "Our hands were tied," Valentine said. "They have an excellent doubles team." OSU is ranked No. 8 in the nation, "A ranking that is well deserved," Valentine said.

The Cougars play Kentucky, 2-0, today. "We don't know much about them other than that they are a solid team," Valentine said. "We're hoping Mugnaini will be able to play."

Golden Eagles' Tim Sweeney (8) attempts to score past the Blades' goalkeeper Bruce Hoffort (31) Thursday night at the Salt Palace.

Wrestlers lose 23-20 to WYO

By COURTNEY HOLZENDORF
Universe Sports Writer

In a meet that was plagued with upsets, the BYU wrestling team was narrowly defeated 23-20 by the University of Wyoming Thursday.

Wyoming was the first of two teams the Cougars will face this week. BYU wrestles at Northern Colorado today.

Robert Ho and Richard Eggert, two Cougar freshmen who were picked to lose, came out of their matches successfully. Ho tied Greg Alexander of Wyoming 5-5 and Eggert, who was trailing in his match 3-2, turned a reversal into a pin to give the Cougars six team points in the heavyweight division.

"We had a lot of good matches, and a lot of good spirit," said BYU coach

Alan Albright. He said Wyoming has a tough team and the fans acted as if they had lost the meet. "I feel good about their performance."

Kelton Anderson of BYU said he felt good about the Cougars' performance. "It went well," he said. "It was a good fight." Anderson tied his match 7-7 in the 126-pound division.

Other winners for BYU were Phil Armstrong in the 150-pound division and Shane Ford, pinning his opponent in the 158-pound division.

Today's match against Northern Colorado offers an element of mystery to most of the Cougar wrestlers. "Nobody knows anything about them because we haven't seen them yet," said BYU 167 pounder Craig Lamont. "All that we've been told is that they wrestle tough and they ride the legs good."

Eagles slap Blades for 8th straight win

By WARREN WHEAT
Universe Sports Writer

The Salt Lake Golden Eagles broke open a 2-2 tie when Corey Lyons knocked in a power play goal midway through the third period, then moments later Andrew McKim added another as Salt Lake skated past the Kansas City Blades 4-2 Thursday night in the Salt Palace.

Thursday night's win was the eighth straight victory for the Golden Eagles adding to their longest winning streak of the season.

Salt Lake has won nine of their last 10 and five consecutive at home.

During the winning streak, the Golden Eagles have outscored their opponents 36-15.

"We've got a good thing going," said Golden Eagles coach Bob Francis. "We've got to ride this wave as far as we can," he said.

Kansas City played tough through the first two periods before the Golden Eagles pulled away in the third.

Francis said he had to give Kansas City a lot of credit for making it difficult on Salt Lake.

The Golden Eagles played into the Blades' hands at times and hurt themselves with penalties which disrupted the continuity of their game, he said.

Salt Lake outshot Kansas City 13-1 in the final period and outshot them 33-17 on the game.

Rich Chernomaz and Darryl Olsen scored the other Salt Lake goals.

Darin Smith and Andy Akervik had the only Kansas City goals.

The Golden Eagles, 32-22-4, are now in second place in the IHL West.

The loss for Kansas City drops them to 15-39-3 and puts them in last place in the IHL West.

The Golden Eagles are scheduled to play a tiresome five games in the next five days.

"We can't dwell on our upcoming schedule. We've got to come up with solutions, not excuses," Francis said.

Salt Lake returns home Wednesday, Feb. 20 to take on Muskegon.

Special Olympics seeks volunteers

by A. ALAN FREEMAN
Universe Staff Writer

It is still a little cold outside for special Olympics participants to practice, but 1,300 to 1,500 people are expected to be involved in this summer's Utah Special Olympics.

To get things off the ground, the state Special Olympics organizers will be on campus to sign up volunteers to help plan and run this summer's games.

The group will hold orientation meetings Wednesday at 7 p.m. in 221 NRB and Thursday at 11 a.m. in 378 LWC.

The sessions will be general orientation for those interested in being committee members or those wishing to help out in the programming and planning of events, said Bruce Madsen, a BYUSA executive director with the program.

The Special Olympic organizers work through BYUSA to find volunteers, Madsen said.

Stacy Rowlett, support services director for Utah Special Olympics '91 Summer Games, said, "The state organization draws a chart and says 'we need people here and here,' and then BYU students become the organization."

Right now, the group is primarily looking for volunteers to be program directors and committee members, said Eric Fronk, sports director for Utah Special Olympics '91 Summer Games.

The group will be handing out applications, Madsen said.

People will be called back for interviews.

"It is just the greatest," Rowlett said.

"When I was involved two years ago I just thought 'This is it, this is so cool.' Then once I got back this year I just wanted to find out when the Special Olympics started and where I could sign up. Once you get involved you are hooked."

Applicants can expect to spend about five hours a week working on their projects. The time commitment will increase during the games in early June.

"This is a big project that will take more than 10 hours during the semester," Rowlett said.

Although previous experience does help, Rowlett said commitment is the most important factor for the volunteers.

The Utah Special Olympics '91 Summer Games will be June 6-8, primarily on the BYU campus.

Benefit concert to help fund project

Students to give humanitarian aid in Bolivia

by CHRISTY MCKELLAR
Universe Staff Writer

A benefit concert tonight at Center stage in Provo will help raise funds for the Bolivian Children's Project, a Peace Corps-type program BYU honor students are participating in this spring.

Sam Rushforth, a professor of botany and range science, said the students involved in the project are BYU honor students enrolled in an environmental biology and environmental policy class. Rushforth, who team teaches the class, will accompany 35 of the students in the class as they travel to the village of Altí Plano in Bolivia. According to Rushforth, the group will be there from April 28 through May 21 and will work on three projects in an effort to improve the quality of life for Bolivians.

All funds generated from the concert will be used to buy materials for the projects students will complete.

Projects include the building of a child health crisis center and a school, and the digging of several wells to install hand-pumps for villages without water.

Rushforth said students will do the actual building. "Our goal is to involve students in a beyond-campus experience, and the fact that we have three definite goals we can start and finish while we are there is really great."

He said all projects are for villages that have requested the help. The purpose of the projects is to curb the high child death rate by providing parent training and critical medical care. The project's effects will be felt regionwide.

According to Christine Dix, a sophomore from Albuquerque, N.M., who is participating in the program, children around the world are dying every day from treatable illnesses and diseases. A single medical clinic has the potential to save thousands of these children's lives, she said.

The program will be done in conjunction with the Andean Children's Foundation stationed in Salt Lake. Rushforth said the reason BYU chose the foundation was because of its association with Bolivia.

"They (Andean Children's Foundation) have ground staff and vehicles and can purchase materials in Bolivia, which makes it possible to begin our work the moment we arrive," Rushforth said.

Tim Evans, field director and founder of the Andean Children's Foundation, said the BYU project is well-planned and will be extremely beneficial not only to the villages in Bolivia but also to the foundation.

LDS editors say words touch hearts

by SHARISA STAPLES
Universe Staff Writer

The editors of magazines sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints said Thursday in an address to BYU students that the magazines are important links between the Church and its members.

Richard M. Romney, managing editor of the New Era, said the Church magazines have the ability to touch the hearts of members. He said the written word could touch the heart and feed the intellect.

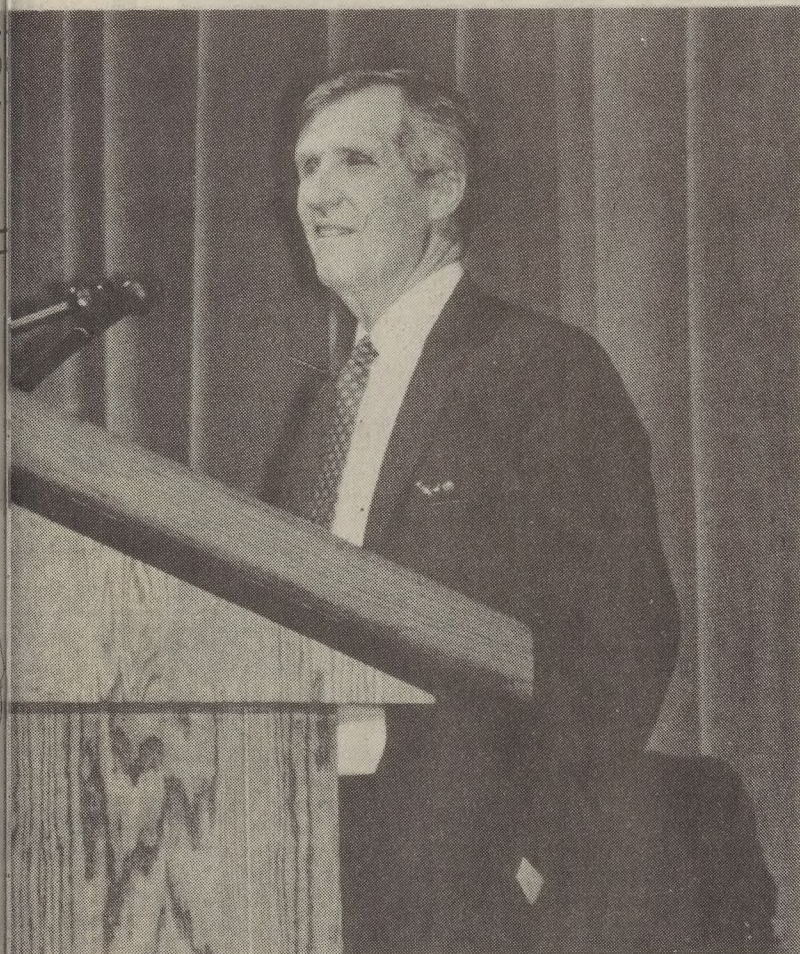

"There are countless lonely hearts and hearts that are heavily burdened that could turn to these magazines to be lifted up to happiness. People can find solutions to their difficulties by reading about others in the Church magazines," Romney said.

Jay Todd, managing editor of the Ensign, spoke on the challenges of getting the articles at a point that the Church will stand behind them. Todd said every story must have the approval of a general authority before it is published.

Vivian Poulsen, managing editor of the Friend, said the magazine strives to bring gospel truths to a simple level for children. "It is the goal of our staff to make every child realize that we are aware of them by addressing their concerns and providing them entertainment," she said.

a 'C,' which is less than my best," Elder Pinegar said. "Excellence comes from being satisfied only with the best."

"It is worth the personal investment and time to strive for excellence and to be satisfied only with excellence."

Elder Pinegar read several letters written to Church magazine editors that explained the influence of the magazines in the lives of many people.

One child wrote a letter telling the Friend magazine that it was truly his friend.

"A young Church member in Poland wrote that the New Era had helped him realize the happiness that comes from service and the magazine motivated him to be a good example," Elder Pinegar said.

President Rex E. Lee presented the first excellence award, which honored the church magazines as a group, to Elder Pinegar.

Among those in attendance to accept awards were Elder Marion D. Hanks and Sister Elaine Cannon, who were instrumental in the founding of the New Era.

Jack Nelson, professor of journalism, presented the excellence awards for the Ensign, the New Era, the Friend and the international magazines.

New BYU club promotes health, fitness

By REBECCA M. TAYLOR
Universe Staff Writer

A student chapter of the Association for Fitness in Business has been formed at BYU, said Robert Harding, the group's president.

The student chapter, AFBYU, is sponsored by the Physical Education-Sports and Health Science Departments for students in health promotions.

The organization existed previously on campus but had never been formally organized, he said.

He said the new BYU chapter will provide students with a network to get internships and jobs and make connections with professionals in the field, because AFB is a national organization.

Activities are targeted to help students learn what they can do to prepare themselves for the job market, he said. "Students will be able to get acquainted with the field outside of the classroom," Harding said. "They can have hands-on practical experience."

The organization will provide connections with professionals throughout Utah who are members of the AFB, Harding said. This affiliation may help students get internships within the state.

Ronald Rhodes, faculty advisor and professor in the Health Sciences Department, said the organization will provide students with a better understanding of the field, and it will provide students access to field publications.

Dental assistants can train in Provo

By CORDY WEST
Universe Staff Writer

Some students are taking advantage of the technical colleges in Provo, including schools that train students to be dental assistants.

Two such schools operate in Provo. Training is provided through clinical programs that give students experience in an actual dental office with local dentists.

Students attend classes for six months in this accelerated course. "Other schools will stretch (their program) for two years; it's not any easy course," said Connie Garland, director of the dental assisting program for The American Institute of Medical-Dental Technology.

The American Institute has a ceiling enrollment of 40 students. Dr. Keigh Van Soest, president and administrator of the school, said the classes are always full.

Dr. Kenneth Molen is the director, instructor and owner of the Provo College of Dental Assisting, a program that trains approximately 70 to 80 students.

"This past year we have seen significant growth," he said.

Jill Wagoner, a 20-year-old junior from Ferron, says she likes the program. "It is teaching me a skill that I can use immediately upon finishing school," she said.

Students are required to complete more than 100 hours of clinical experience in labs in addition to the time they spend in the classroom. A six-week internship helping a dentist is also required.

Linda Geer, office manager for Dr. James Ashman, said they enjoy working with student dental assistants.

"Some dentists actually prefer having interns. The students who come to us are always professionals, and we like that," Geer said.

After the internship, the dentist makes a performance evaluation of the student. Students must then pass the national exam approved by the American Dental Association. Upon passing the exam, they are certified dental assistants.

Job placement is not difficult either. Both of the Provo schools place more than 90 percent of their students.

Bangerter wants $1.3 million

Olympic bid needs money

By ROMMYN SKIPPER
Universe Staff Writer

Gov. Norman Bangerter said more money is needed if Salt Lake wants to win the race for the 1998 Winter Olympics.

Bangerter, speaking to major print and broadcast media executives Thursday afternoon, said $1.3 million must be raised within the next 30 days if Salt Lake expects to win the bid for the Olympics.

"With less than four months remaining in the campaign, there is great urgency in our request for your support," he said.

The new funds will be used to help finance the visits of about 40 members of the International Olympic Committee and to finish paying the costs for the 22 who have already visited, he said.

The more IOC members who visit Salt Lake, the better the chances of Salt Lake winning the bid, said Carol Lueckler, executive secretary for the Salt Lake City Chamber of Commerce.

Bangerter said, "The best way to win IOC votes is to bring its members here so they can learn first-hand why Utah is the ideal Olympic site."

"That is the secret to getting the bid," Lueckler said.

Utah also bid for the 1972 Olympics. Although it did not get the bid, Utah gained worldwide recognition for its winter sports qualities, Bangerter said. That recognition, followed by "The Greatest Snow on Earth" campaign, helped launch Utah's ski industry, he said.

But of the dozen drugs studied, ibuprofen showed the lowest risk, at 2.3 times, while meclizolamine increased the risk 8.7 times.

Ibuprofen is the only one of that group available in over-the-counter strength. Aspirin is also an NSAID but was not included in the study because it is not a prescription drug.

Ibuprofen was included because, at the beginning of the study, it was still a prescription drug and was available free under Medicaid. While ibuprofen is now available without a prescription, the maximum recommended total daily dosage is the same as with prescription forms; a person may take more but smaller pills with the over-the-counter brands.

Aspirin is at least as risky as ibuprofen, said the study's lead author, Dr. Marie Griffin.

Of those patients hospitalized with ulcers, 34 percent were taking NSAIDs compared with 13 percent of the control group.

Old court building gets new use

By ROGER ELLIS
Universe Staff Writer

The Municipal Building Authority acted Wednesday to give control of the Utah County Building to the county commission.

The move will enable the county to begin restoring the historic building and leasing it to commercial clients.

The bond on the old court building stipulates that only the courts can use the building, but by redeeming the bond these restrictions are nullified, County Commissioner Malcolm Beck said.

"The money is available (for the restoration of the court building), you just need to free it up,"

— Malcolm Beck county commissioner

Because the courts have moved to a different location, the restoration process has been held up.

By selling back the bonds, the money can now be used without restrictions. The county will now make plans to restore the building and update it, County Engineer Clyde Naylor said.

Some cleanup and refurbishing work has been completed, but more is needed to beautify the building.

Naylor said the full scope of the project has not been determined yet but should include basic cleanup such as new carpeting and painting, along with easier exiting, better access for the handicapped and more fire extinguishers.

Some work may also be done on the driveway, the roof and loose marble. Additional support for the small railing on top of the roof is also needed.

The project will cost approximately $1.1 million.

"The money is available, you just need to free it up," Beck said.

Financing for the project is not expected to be a problem, Commissioner Gary Herbert said at Wednesday's commission meeting.

Some have already expressed interest in leasing space in the building. The Utah Travel Council and some offices of the Utah County Sheriff are among those that plan to move into the building.

Rep. Bill Orton (D) and Sens. Jake Garn (R) and Orrin Hatch (R) also want to establish offices in the building.

ing.

Naylor said the restoration will not interfere with or delay the leasing of the building.

No dates have been set for the restoration to begin. Final approvals for the project is expected soon.

U.N. council debates war in U.S.-led closed session

Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS — The U.N. Security Council opened debate on the gulf war Thursday in its first closed-door session in 15 years. Iraq's envoy condemned the U.S. bombing deaths of civilians in Baghdad and gave no sign Iraq would vacate Kuwait.

China called the reports of civilian casualties and massive destruction caused by the allied raids against Iraq "extremely grave" and offered its own plan for achieving a peaceful solution.

The debate was the first on the war by the 15-member council, which in November authorized the United States and its allies to use military force to drive Iraq from Kuwait after Jan. 15.

The council adjourned Thursday night after 3 1/2 hours of debate and was to reconvene Friday morning.

At least 30 speakers were on the list for a debate that could continue for days.

Cuban Ambassador Ricardo Alarcon said his government was drafting a call for a cease-fire and establishment of a committee that would recommend ways to end the war this month.

The Persian Gulf crisis began when Iraq invaded Kuwait Aug. 2. Allied bombing raids began Jan. 17. A U.S. air attack on Baghdad killed hundreds of civilians in an underground shelter Wednesday.

The allies said the bombed target was a military command and control bunker.

Thursday's session was closed at the insistence of the United States, Britain and other countries who said the spectacle of a noisy debate and criticism of allied tactics would encourage Iraqi President Saddam Hussein.

A transcript of Thursday's meeting was to be made available Friday.

Normally, the United Nations gives a detailed running account while the meeting is under way.

Diplomats at the meeting said Iraqi Ambassador Abdul Amir Al-Anbari accused the coalition of war crimes.
